

Sarah Shin

CHIEF DIVERSITY OFFICER

Sarah works closely with the equality committee, the employee resource advisory board, the leadership teams, and the passionate change agents at Cloudera to advance the inclusive employee experience, provide progressive development opportunities around equality and belonging, and drive operational excellence within the organization. Sarah has more than 25 years of experience in D&I and HR leadership positions at Apple, LeapFrog, HPE, and more. She was previously the head of diversity, inclusion, & learning at Cloudera, where she led various diversity and inclusion initiatives focused on leveling the playing field for women and underrepresented minorities. Sarah graduated from Boise State University with a bachelor's of business administration degree in general business with an emphasis in labor and industrial relations.